

CYRILLA Global Policy Advocacy Workshop, 2024

The CYRILLA global policy advocacy workshop is a capacity-building opportunity for young digital rights defenders to strengthen their skills on advocacy in international spaces for advancing digital rights. The objectives of the workshop are: - to enable collaboration within and amongst digital rights communities across regions, - the development of effective and responsive advocacy strategies at the international level for participants, and - to gain a better understanding of how CYRILLA can aid advocacy practitioners in these efforts. Through the workshop, members of the digital rights community in Asia, LAC, Africa, and MENA will be familiarised with spaces and mechanisms of international advocacy that can be leveraged to promote digital rights. They will also have a platform for meaningful engagement to discuss the development of effective advocacy strategies at the international level and an opportunity for cross-regional connections for more impactful advocacy work.

□□ Workshop Sessions

Session 1: Introduction to global policy advocacy

Time zone 1: Wednesday, 7 August (7:00 - 8:30 UTC)

Time zone 2: Thursday, 8 August (15:00 - 16:30 UTC)

Objective: This session will introduce discussions for understanding policy advocacy. The aim is to enable participants to understand what international advocacy is and what its limits are. By the end of the session participants will have a better understanding of why policy advocacy is undertaken, where it has succeeded and when it has failed.

Session plan:

The session will aim to cover questions such as:

- What is international advocacy?
- Who is it targeted towards?
- Who are the main stakeholders in this space and what are their interests?
- What is the relationship between national and international advocacy?
- How has the digital era impacted international advocacy spaces?
- What are the challenges and limitations of international advocacy?
- Some examples of where it has worked, and where it has failed

Session exercise:

During the session, participants will be split into breakout groups. Groups will be pre-assigned by the organising team.

Each group will be invited to identify an issue related to digital rights that can leverage global advocacy into local discussions, and asked to think about how to approach global policy advocacy in relation to that issue by responding to a series of questions.

Session 2: Legal framework for global advocacy

Time zone 1: Wednesday, 7 August (9:30 - 11:00 UTC)

Time zone 2: Thursday, 8 August (17:30 - 19:00 UTC)

Objective: This session will introduce participants to key documents that help set out the standards for digital rights within the international human rights framework. This framework forms the basis of all forms of international policy advocacy. Through this session, participants will be equipped with knowledge on the types of instruments, treaties and standards that are relevant for advocating for digital rights, the enforceability mechanisms that underpin these instruments and the importance of international human rights law in advocating for digital rights at the national, regional and global levels.

Session plan:

The session will highlight the international human rights framework and its related enforceability mechanisms, and showcase the relevance and utility of this framework for local advocacy, through interactive discussion and practical exercises designed for participants.

Pre-preparation (to be completed before 7 August 2024):

Participants are requested to watch the following video recording ahead of the session:

Slide deck of presentation by Sheetal Kumar

Session exercise:

During the session, participants will be split into breakout groups. Groups will be pre-assigned by the organising team based on regional background of participants.

Each group will be assigned a case from the CYRILLA database relevant to your region and respond to the following three questions:

- What are the relevant international human rights standards to the case?
 - Can you point to any texts that illustrate how the standard is evolving in the digital age (e.g any soft law or general comments to a Treaty)?

- What global enforcement mechanisms could be used?
 - Do you know of any precedents of the mechanism being used in relation to a similar case/s?
- As a local advocate, how could you use your knowledge of these standards and enforcement mechanisms in an advocacy or campaign strategy?

Session 3: UN & other spaces for digital rights advocacy

Time zone 1: Friday, 9 August (7:00 - 8:30 UTC)

Time zone 2: Monday, 12 August (15:00 - 16:30 UTC)

Objective: This session will provide an overview of the different spaces available in the UN ecosystem and outside, including internet governance spaces that can be leveraged for digital rights advocacy. Understanding these spaces will help participants identify the relevant spaces and forums they must approach to advocate for different issues related to digital rights. Through looking at examples of important standards these spaces have created or instances of success, participants will be aided in modelling their advocacy. Limitations or failures of these spaces will help us understand areas that need more work.

Session plan:

Participants will be introduced to various global spaces for digital rights advocacy through case studies that examine relevancy of spaces to critical digital rights issues in focus.

The session will provide participants an opportunity to share their findings from the pre-preparation exercise detailed below, which will be followed by a presentation and interactive discussion.

Pre-preparation (to be completed and submitted to organisers on or before 8 August 2024):

Participants are requested to self-select one case study based on the issue that's most relevant to their work and context, and answer the following questions in relation to the case study:

- What are the key issues that must be taken up for advocacy?
- What are some of the spaces and processes civil society should approach to present and advocate for these issues?

Participants are requested to download the self-selected case study, and submit the completed exercise in docx or pdf form by email.

□□ Workshop policies & governing rules

☐☐ Code of conduct and principles of participation

The Association for Progressive Communications is committed to providing a safe and welcoming environment for discussing issues related to its community. The APC Community comprises members of the network, all APC staff and team and its larger network of partners, friends and allies.

The code of conduct and ground rules apply to this meeting, all APC hosted events, conference-related social events, such as parties or gatherings at restaurants or bars and spaces, and includes our mailing lists, wikis, platforms, websites and any other spaces that APC hosts, both online and offline. Participants are responsible for knowing and abiding by these guidelines. In this event, the code applies to anyone who is part of the event, which includes organisers, resource persons and participants.

All APC meetings, virtual and physical meetings, are intended to be SAFE spaces and we ask participants to be guided by the following:

| Be respectful

| Listen actively

| Be respectful of others' views even when you disagree

| Be collaborative

| Recognise diversity

| Respect privacy of participants

| Ask for consent for photography, audio-visual recordings or quotes

| Be aware of language diversity

| Handle disagreement constructively

| Act fairly, honestly, and in good faith with other participants

It is vital that discussions include and acknowledge a diversity of opinions and experiences, and that the community does not tolerate harassment of any kind.

We expect the members of the APC community to treat one another with respect and to acknowledge that everyone can make a valuable contribution. We may not always agree, but the space and conversation must always have openness to positions that may not be aligned or in agreement. Frustration cannot turn into a personal attack. It's important to remember that a community where people feel uncomfortable or threatened is not a productive one, and that the meeting conduct and ground rules are anchored in the APC values we have all committed to uphold. It is our collective responsibility to ensure that we create a safe, creative, productive and welcoming space that can hold us in all of our diversity.

We will take action in response to harassment related to gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, disability, physical appearance, body size, race, nationality, caste, ethnicity or religion. APC does not tolerate harassment of participants in any form.

Definitions

Harassment

includes, but is not limited to:

- Offensive comments related to gender, gender identity and expression, sexual orientation, disability, mental illness, neuro(a)typicality, physical appearance, body size, race, caste, ethnicity or religion.
- Unwelcome comments regarding a person's lifestyle choices and practices, including those related to food, health, parenting, drugs, and employment.
- Physical contact and simulated physical contact without consent or after a request to stop.
- Deliberate intimidation.
- Sustained disruption of discussion.
- Continued one-on-one communication after requests to cease.
- Sexual harassment

is a broad term. For the purposes of this event it is defined as:

Any unwelcome sexual advance in the form of words, images, gestures or physical contact in physical, digital or communication spaces which may reasonably be expected, or be perceived, to cause distress, intimidation, fear, humiliation, or harm to another. The term also covers any request for a sexual favour, or a threat of a sexual nature. Sexual harassment may occur in any space, including the workplace. This includes activities of face-to-face meetings, virtual meetings and digital communication of all kinds. It can be a one-time incident or a series of incidents. Sexual harassment may be unintended, deliberate, or coercive. Sexual harassment may occur both within formal working hours and spaces, and outside these. Men, women, non-binary, transitioning and transgender individuals may be victims or offenders.

Sexual harassment may result in discrimination, and it may create a hostile working environment. Other forms of behaviour which cause discrimination, fear, and/or a hostile working environment may be implicated in sexual harassment, such as harassment based on race, gender, sexuality, national origin, physical appearance, age, ancestry, disability, economic disparity, nationality, or religious or spiritual beliefs. APC recognises that APC's staff members, partners and event participants are from diverse contexts, and that sexual harassment experiences are embedded within the cultural, social, historical and personal contexts.

“ Sexual harassment should not be confused with unintentional careless communication in a diverse working environment, or with our efforts to create a working culture which is open to conversations on sexuality and human rights.

We understand that the impact of sexual harassment on APC's working culture can be highly destructive, and we understand the harmful impact of sexual harassment on any person's work, mind and body.

Examples of sexual harassment include (but are not limited to):

- Gratuitous or off-topic sexual images or behaviour in spaces where they are not appropriate.
- Unwelcome sharing of sexualised content in visual, audio or text form
- Deliberate stalking, following or intimidation, online and/or offline
- Harassing photography, video or audio recording
- Inappropriate and/or unwanted physical contact
- Unwelcome sexual attention, in any form of communication
- Requests for sexual favours, verbal or physical contact of a sexual nature in exchange for an opportunity
- Threats, either explicit or implicit, to withdraw an opportunity or resources unless sexual contact and/or communication is permitted
- Advocating for, or encouraging, any of the above behaviour.

If you believe you have been harassed, or notice that someone else is being harassed, or have any other concerns, you are encouraged to raise your concerns in confidence to the Event Incidents Team.

APC commits that each case will be considered, and concrete actions will be taken as appropriate.

Please refer to APC's sexual harassment policy for how APC responds to sexual harassment.

Code of Conduct and Anti-Harassment Policy Response Process

If you are being harassed by a member of the community or a participant or organiser at the workshop, or have any other concerns, please contact a member of the Event Incidents Team.

When a complaint is made or an incident occurs that breaches this code, the Event Incidents Team will confidentially review and respond to any participant who has experienced harassment or inappropriate behaviour.

If the person who is harassing you is on the Event Incidents Team, they will recuse themselves from handling your incident. If the person who is harassing you is a member of the organising team, they will not receive differential treatment than any other participant in the handling of the complaint.

We will try to respond as promptly to complaints as we can. These steps will be taken once you make a complaint:

1. One or more members of the Event Incidents team will discuss the issue with you.
2. They may take notes, with your consent, of what you say.
3. One or more members of the Events Incidents team will separately speak with the person(s) against whom the complaint is lodged.
4. The process will involve attaining resolution while ensuring safety, dignity and respect for everyone involved.

If a participant engages in harassing behaviour, the Response Team may take any action they deem appropriate, up to and including expulsion from all APC spaces during the event, and identification of the participant as a harasser to other APC members or the general public. The Event Incidents team will prioritise marginalised people's safety over privileged people's comfort.

Any member of the Event Incidents Team can be contacted with any questions or concerns participants may have throughout the duration of an APC event. Anonymous complaints can be reported to the team via email.

Names and contact information of the Event Incidents Team are as follows:
